

Media consolidation is a bad idea. Radio and Television quality and diversity will not be improved by making the corporations larger, but by having many smaller companies competing on an even playing field.